Version 2.0 | October 2026

1. What is KitchenCart?

KitchenCart is a smart grocery list web app that runs entirely in your browser. There is no login, no server and no app to install. Each family has their own private URL — open it, check items, adjust quantities and send the list to WhatsApp.

6. Your Data & Privacy

KitchenCart stores all data only on your device using browser localStorage. Nothing is sent to any server. Each family's data is completely separate — Jaya cannot see Krishnan's list and vice versa.

What this means

- Your checked items and quantity changes are saved automatically
- Data survives closing the app and restarting your phone
- Data is lost if you clear your browser history/data, or change phones
- Workaround: WhatsApp any custom items you've added to Jayaraman — he will add them permanently to the master list for everyone

7. Refreshing After an Update

When the app is updated (new items added, categories changed), your phone may still show the old version due to browser caching. To force a fresh load:

iPhone (Safari)

- Open a new Private tab: tap tabs icon → Private → +
- Type the URL and open — this always loads the latest version

Android (Chrome)

- Tap ■ → New Incognito tab
- Type the URL and open

After confirming the new version works, you can go back to your normal tab or home screen icon — it will also update on next open.

8. How New Items Get Added to the Master List

KitchenCart's item list is maintained by Jayaraman. Here's how new items are added:

- Step 1: Jayaraman photographs a grocery receipt (Mustafa Centre, FairPrice etc.)
- Step 2: Photo is uploaded to Claude AI in the KitchenCart project
- Step 3: Claude reads all items, checks for duplicates and assigns categories
- Step 4: Updated HTML files are generated and pushed to GitHub
- Step 5: All 6 family URLs automatically show the new items

If you want a personal item added permanently for your family, WhatsApp it to Jayaraman with the category and quantity.
